WASHINGTON PRINTERS VOTE ON AMENDMENTS

Four Proposals Made by Los Angeles Convention Approved Here.

Members of the Columbia Typographical Union of Washington last night voted in favor of four amendments to the laws of the International Typographical Union proposed at the annual convention at Los Angeles recently.

The first amendment proposed was one to increase the per capita tax 5 cents a month for the purpose of extending the Union's Home and for the support of that institution. The vote of the local men on this was 69 to 22.

An amendment to correct an error of a previous convention by which the amount of the mortuary fund was increased and the word "continuous" inadvertently omitted from the law was given a vote of 91 to 13.

The third proposition was to amend the priority law so as to make any substitute with an office standing at least sixty days eligible to a vacant situation, and give subordinate unions power to establish scale provisions governing the filling of situations and the disposal of extra work. The vote on this was 67 for and 47 against.

An affirmative vote of 66 against 43 was given to the proposition to abolish seven-day situation, establish a six-day standard for the situation throughout the entire jurisdiction and amend Sec. 12, general laws, to conform with the six-day standard if adopted.

WOULD BROADEN DISTRICT INQUIRY

William McK. Clayton Thinks
Sentiment as to Home Rule
Should Be Canvassed.

SAYS CHANGE IS COMING

Self-government Urged in Address Before
Brightwood Citizens' Association.

In urging home rule for the District at a meeting of the Brightwood Citizens' Association last night William McK. Clayton urged that the investigation now being made into the fiscal relations between the District and the United States be extended to the "unfair" political conditions of the people of this city.

"This association has always stood for self-government in the District, and I hope that out of the present inquiry into our fiscal relations may come an inquiry into whether the District needs, wants or desires changes in its political government."

"In fact, I hope that before this committee makes its report to Congress this phase of the question will be taken up. I think the powers of the committee should be extended to cover this question and let it continue its investigation along that line."

"Recently you probably have noticed an undercurrent of pessimism and discontent caused by uncalculated treatment by Congress. I believe that a change in the political conditions in the District would cause to pass away much of the complaint we now hear from citizens' associations."

Mr. McK. Clayton introduced a resolution before his election requesting the Commissioners to recommend to Congress the removal of the overhead trolley car system from Georgia avenue. The other associations in the city section will be asked to unite in the request.

Mr. McK. Clayton introduced a resolution before his election requesting the Commissioners to recommend to Congress the removal of the overhead trolley car system from Georgia avenue. The other associations in the city section will be asked to unite in the request.

Mr. McK. Clayton attacked the Boardland amendment, by which property owners in the District are compelled to pay a fourth of the cost of street improvements. "Streets in the city have been paved and repaved in the past without any cost to the property owners," said Mr. McK. Clayton, "while in the suburbs are required by this amendment to pay for our streets."

Chairman Metcalf, of the committee on schools, criticized the Board of Education for its apparent lack of interest in the public school in that neighborhood. Mr. Metcalf pointed out that children from nearby Maryland have crowded out children of the District in certain grades. He said the Board of Education has failed to fit up a spare room in the building to make room for the pupils. The committee wants eight grades in the school instead of five.

The officers elected to serve with Mr. McK. Clayton are A. W. Felka, vice president; S. M. Falconer, secretary, and J. B. Simpson, treasurer.

REPLIES TO HERALD'S QUESTION NUMEROUS

Many Shoppers Tell Advantages of "Last Minute News" in Morning Papers.

The letter carrier who toils his way from the postoffice to the office of The Washington Herald is a busy man these days. His pack would do justice to old Santa Claus himself, for it is weighted down with the answers that are pouring in to the question propounded by The Herald's advertising department. "What are the advantages shoppers enjoy from last-minute advertising in the morning newspapers?"

Fifty dollars in gold is to be awarded the three best articles submitted by mid-night Saturday, October 16. The first award, for the best article, is to be $25; the second award, for the second best, is to be $15; and the third award is to be $10.

The contest is so easy, simple and so free from rules and restrictions that anybody can enter it. This is undoubtedly the reason for the tremendous response that is being received.

Reasons and facts, based upon experience or observation, presented in an article of 200 words or less, is all that is required. Penmanship, grammar, neatness and expression do not count at all and will not be considered in making the awards.

Everybody has opinions on most every subject, and in this contest all that is required is the opinion of the contestants on the value of last-minute shopping news afforded by the advertising columns of the morning papers.

Answers have been coming in on every mail, and the counter clerk has been kept busy from morning to night receiving articles that are delivered in person.

Most of the articles that have arrived present reasons that are based upon actual shopping experiences of the writers. These are many and varied, but all show good reasons for reading the "Last-minute Shopping News."
